Discover Nature Schools programs*Becoming Bears (Kindergarten-2 grade)

By becoming baby bears, children learn from their “parent” to survive the seasons. Kids will find safety in the spring and learn kinds of food bears eat during the summer, and then create a cave for winter hibernation(冬眠). After learning the skills needed to survive, students will go out of the cave as an independent black bear able to care for themselves. (1.5-2 hours)

Whose Clues? (3-5 grade)

Kids will discover how plants and animals use their special structures to survive. Through outdoor study of plants and animals, kids will recognize their special structures and learn how they enable species to eat, avoid their enemies and survive. Using what they have learned, kids will choose one species and tell how they survive in their living places. (3-4 hours)

Winged Wonders (3-5 grade)

Birds add color and sound to our world and play an important ecological (生态的) role. Students will learn the basics of birds, understand the role birds play in food chains and go bird watching using field guides and telescopes. Students will do hands-on activities. Students will use tools to build bird feeders, allowing them to attract birds at home.(3-4 hours)

Exploring Your Watershed (6-8 grade)

We all depend on clean water. Examining how our actions shape the waterways around us. Go on a hike to see first-hand some of the challenging water quality problems in a city. Students will test the water quality to determine the health of an ecosystem.

- Each program is taught for a class with at least 10 students.
- All programs include plenty of time outdoors. So please prepare proper clothing, sunscreen and insect killers for children.

B

When I was about 12, I had an enemy, a girl who liked to point out (指出) my shortcomings. Week by week her list grew: I was very thin, I wasn't a good student, I talked too much, I was too proud, and so on. I tried to hear all this as long as I could. At last, I became very angry. I ran to my father with tears in my eyes.

He listened to me quietly, then he asked. “Are the things she says true or not? Janet, didn't you ever wonder what you're really like? Well, you now have that girl's opinion. Go and make a list of everything she said and mark the points that are true. Pay no attention to the other things she said.”

I did as he told me. To my great surprise, I discovered that about half the things were true. Some of them I couldn't change (like being very thin), but a good number I could—and suddenly I wanted to change. For the first time I go to very clear picture of myself.

I brought the list back to Daddy. He refused to take it. "That's just for you," he said. "You know better than anyone else the truth about yourself. But you have to learn to listen, not just close your ears in anger and feeling hurt. When something said about you is true, you'll find it will be of help to you. Our world is full of people who think they know your duty. Don't shut your ears. Listen to them all, but hear the truth and do what you know is the right thing to do."

Daddy's advice has returned to me at many important moments. In my life, I've never had a better piece of advice.

4. What did the father do after he had heard his daughter's complaint (抱怨)?
  - A. He refused to take the list and have a look at it.
  - B. He told her to pay attention only to the things that were true .
  - C. He told her not to pay any attention to what her 'enemy' had said.
  - D. He criticized (批评) her and told her to overcome her shortcomings.
5. What does "Week by week her list grew" mean?
  - A. Week by week, my shortcomings grew more serious.
  - B. I was having more and more shortcomings as time went on.
  - C. Week by week she discovered more shortcomings and pointed them out to me.
  - D. She kept on adding new shortcomings to the list so that it was growing longer and longer.
6. Why did her father listen to her quietly?
  - A. Because he wasn't quite sure which girl was telling the truth.
  - B. Because he wanted to show his anger by keeping silent for a while.
  - C. Because he knew that his daughter was telling the truth.
  - D. Because he believed that what her daughter's "enemy" said was mostly true.
7. Which do you think would be the best title for this passage?

A. My Father	B. The Best Advice I've Ever Had
B. My Childhood	D. Not an Enemy, but the Best Friend

C

About ten men in every hundred suffer from color blindness in some way. Women are luckier; only about one in two hundred is affected (影响) in this matter. Perhaps, after all, it is safer to be driven by a woman!

There are different forms of color blindness. In some cases a man may not be able to see deep red. He may think that red, orange and yellow are all shadows(阴影) of green. Sometimes a person cannot tell the difference between blue and green. In few cases an unlucky man may see everything in shades of green — a strange world indeed.

Color blindness in human beings is a strange thing to explain. In a single eye there are millions of very small things called "cones". These help us to see in a bright light and to tell difference between colors. There are also millions of "rods", but these are used for seeing when it is near dark. They show us shape but no color.

Some insects (昆虫) have favorite colors. Mosquitoes (蚊子) prefer blue to yellow. A red light will not attract (吸引) insects, but a blue lamp will. In a similar way human also have favorite colors. Yet we are lucky. With the help of the cones in our eyes we can see many beautiful colors by day, and with the help of

C. There is no longer any good reason to waste any type of water.

D. A constructed wetland environment is already in practice on a small scale.

E. This would reduce the need for fresh water for irrigation and energy for pumping.

F. If collected and treated properly, it could provide “new water”, fertilizer, and energy.

G. Although waste water systems in large cities are effective, the whole procedure usually costs much.

短文改错

The day right after my seventeen birthday during last summer vacation, I pay a visit to my grandparents. They've been living in a village outside the city that I had a wonderful childhood with them. I was sitting at a bus stop talking my mother about what to eat for lunch. Sooner I realized that someone was looking at me. Turn around, I found it was Linda, the girl I had stayed with her for so long when I was a child. She was staring at me curious. Did she recognize me, and was she just wondering who my mother and I were? I called out her name. And for a next few minutes we were excitedly hugging each other.
